GroupOne partners with SkillSurvey to improve client reference checks

IRVING, TX – GroupOne Services, Inc., today announced a partnership with SkillSurvey, Inc. so clients can take advantage of the company's Pre-Hire 360® and Passive Candidate Compiler™ tools to improve efficiency in reference checking while also filling crucial positions.

With SkillSurvey's online Pre-Hire 360®, GroupOne clients can now automate their ability to gather valuable insight into a candidate's past behaviors and skills. The survey's electronic format is easy and confidential. Recruiters can skip the time-consuming step of placing phone calls to an applicant's co-worker or former employer. Through SkillSurvey, a job candidate initiates the process via email and their reference provider's are then asked a set of behaviorally-based questions that are automatically aggregated into a reference assessment report for the recruiter.

The SkillSurvey Passive Candidate Compiler™ will expand clients' pools of candidates, furthering opportunities to find employees more rapidly for hard-to-fill positions. When references provide feedback on job candidates, they have the option of remaining "on your radar screen" for future job openings that may interest them. With their permission, their contact information is automatically captured in The SkillSurvey Passive Candidate Compiler™. By having an available pool of candidates within specific industry and geographic locations, GroupOne clients can quickly staff crucial roles.

"GroupOne's partnership with SkillSurvey is an advantage to our clients," said Eric Scott, vice president of GroupOne. "Our clients will now be able to make web-based reference checks that are timely and helpful in making informed hiring decisions. These are great tools to assist hospitals and healthcare providers in finding the right employee for their institutions."
